NOTICE OF OPPOSITION

In the matter of the application for registration of the trademark KORADIOR (“Applicant’s Mark”) as applied to various items of clothing in International Class 25, U.S. Trademark Application Serial No. 79/117,194 filed May 15, 2012 by Shenzhen Koradior Fashion Co., Ltd, upon information and belief, a Chinese corporation with an address at 7H, Block B, Tairan Hongsong Building, Tairan 9th Road, Futian District, Shenzhen, China (“Applicant”), Christian Dior Couture, S.A., a Société Anonyme, organized and existing under the laws of the Republic of France, having an office at 30 Avenue Montaigne, Paris 75008, France (“Dior” or “Opposer”) believes that it will be damaged by registration of Applicant’s mark and hereby opposes the same.

As grounds for opposition, it is alleged as follows:

1. Opposer is a world famous couturier house engaged in the business of styling and selling, in part through related companies and licensees, diverse articles of women’s wearing apparel and fashion accessories, is famous throughout the world, including in China, for its leadership, style, excellence and quality in the field of fashion, and is widely recognized and known as one of the principal style innovators and leaders in the fashion field.

2. The couture House of Dior, the predecessor of Opposer in the present proceeding, was started by M. Christian Dior when, in 1946, he acquired a hotel at 30 Avenue Montaigne in Paris, France that remains the headquarters of Opposer.

3. Through the years, Dior, itself and through related companies, has established and continues to maintain quality and fashion standards in the United States of America and throughout the world with regard to a broad range of fashion products, including clothing and fashion accessories, all known to adhere to the highest standards of style and quality.

4. For over six decades, Opposer has offered for sale and sold both in the United States of America and throughout the world, clothing and fashion accessories using the mark DIOR, both alone and with other formatives, often in a distinctive typeface known as Cochin type font. An example of such font with the letters shown in aligned array appears in U.S. Trademark Registration No. 592,225, registered in the United States Patent and Trademark Office July 6, 1954. Opposer's DIOR mark is also registered in plain type (which covers all type fonts) in U.S. Trademark Registration No. 1,848,630 registered in the United States Patent and Trademark Office August 9, 1994. Other examples of Opposer's use of the DIOR mark alone and in combination with other formatives and designs are shown, for example, in U.S. Trademark Registration Nos. 893,200; 3,107,004; 3,771,789; 4,252,204; and 4,252,205. Copies of printouts of the above-identified U.S. trademark registrations of Opposer taken from the Trademark Status and Document Retrieval Electronic Database of the United States Patent and Trademark Office are annexed hereto and identified as Exhibits 1 through 7, including U.S. Trademark Registration Nos. 4,252,204 for the trademark ROSE DIOR BAGATELLE (Exhibit 6) and 4,252,205 for the trademark ROSE DIOR PRE CATELAN (Exhibit 7) which have just recently issued to Opposer. Such trademarks of Opposer are collectively referred to hereinafter in this Notice Of Opposition as “the Dior Trademarks.”

5. The registrations for the Dior Trademarks and other trademarks of Opposer are valid and subsisting and owned by Opposer and one or more of the Dior Trademarks for clothing has been used by Opposer or a predecessor in interest since at least 1947 continuously to the present. Such use by Opposer or a predecessor in interest is long prior to any rights of Applicant in and to the KORADIOR trademark to which it may be entitled.

6. By reason of the high quality and style of various products including clothing and fashion accessories which have been offered by Opposer throughout the years under one or more of the Dior Trademarks, and as a result of both paid and unpaid publicity which such products, including clothing offered under one or more of the Dior Trademarks have received, both in the United States of America and throughout the world, the DIOR mark has become associated with Opposer and has become known to the purchasing public throughout the United States of America and the world, as representing products of the highest quality which are sold under the best merchandising and customer service conditions by or under the authority of Opposer.

7. In virtue of the wide renown and fame which has been acquired by Opposer with regard to the clothing which it offers under one or more of the Dior Trademarks, Opposer has developed a secondary meaning, fame and significance with respect to the Dior Trademarks in the minds of the purchasing public, such that products offered by or under the authority of Opposer under one or more of the Dior Trademarks, are recognized by the purchasing public to be uniquely identified with Opposer as their source.

8. A recent survey in China, the home country of Applicant, has shown that of those surveyed, over 95% of the Chinese public are familiar with the DIOR trademark in China, and approximately 98% of them have been familiar with the one or more of the DIOR Trademarks in China for more than ten years.

9. Opposer never gave any permission to Applicant to use or ever transferred any rights in any of the Dior Trademarks, to Applicant.

10. Upon information and belief, the goods for which Applicant seeks registration are commonly distributed through the same channels of commerce as are the goods of Opposer bearing one or more of its DIOR Trademarks.

11. In addition to offering for sale its goods under the subject mark through fashion shows prominently featuring the same, Applicant prominently features apparel on the internet using the KORADIOR trademark at the URL <http://www.koradior.com>. A representative “screen shot” one of from Applicant’s internet presentations is annexed hereto and identified as Exhibit 8. The wording on the screen shown in such Exhibit, overlapping Applicant’s representation of a model seated on the top of car seat back and the adjacent photograph (the model apparently wearing Applicant’s clothing which it is offering under the KORADIOR mark) reads, in pertinent part: “KORADIOR The Source Of Inspiration France.” Such inclusion by Applicant is an affirmation of, and was a recognition by Applicant of, the accuracy of the result of the recent survey in China which found that 87% of the public surveyed associated the DIOR trademark with a French company. Such inclusion is a blatant attempt by Applicant to cause confusion as to the source of its goods with Opposer.

12. Applicant’s mark so resembles Opposer’s DIOR Trademark as to be likely when applied to the goods of Applicant, to cause confusion or to cause mistake or to deceive.

13. The granting of a registration to Applicant for its KORADIOR mark would permit Applicant to represent that it has the exclusive right to use such mark in commerce in connection with the goods stated in its application when, in fact, such is not the case, all to Opposer's great damage and detriment.

14. The use or registration by Applicant of the subject mark is without Opposer's consent, sponsorship or permission, although any registration to Applicant for such mark would likely cause confusion as to whether, in fact, Opposer had granted Applicant consent or has sponsored or given permission to it, when such is not the case.

15. Registration to Applicant of the subject mark for the goods in the opposed application would in all likelihood be damaging to Opposer in a manner with respect to which such damage to Opposer would be irreparable.

16. Further evidence of the likelihood of confusion with regard to Applicant's and Opposer's marks is apparent when trade publications provide coverage of offerings by Applicant of the goods which are the subject of the subject application in juxtaposition with Applicant's mark. Annexed hereto and identified as Exhibit 9 is a printout of a showing of an on-line fashion magazine of representations of various items of clothing offered by Applicant. Of particular relevance with respect to likelihood of confusion is the photographic representation in the upper left corner of such Exhibit.

17. Applicant's Mark, although presented as a unitary mark, would likely be perceived by those viewing the same as a given name, in combination with Opposer's DIOR trademark. For example, the "KORA" formative sounds like the more common given name "Cora" and even with the formative as applied for by Applicant, has been used as a given name. For example, see Exhibit 10 annexed hereto.

18. At various times, Opposer has used formatives in conjunction with its DIOR Trademark for fashion accessories such as jewelry (see Opposer's GOURMETTE DE DIOR mark of Registration No. 3,107,004, the TSDR copy which is shown as Exhibit 4), as well as Opposer's ROSE DIOR BAGATELLE and ROSE DIOR CATELAN trademarks of U.S. Trademark Registration Nos. 4,252,204 and 4,252,205, TSDR copies of which are annexed hereto as Exhibits 6 and 7. In spite of the fact that neither the ROSE DIOR BAGATELLE nor the ROSE DIOR PRE CATELAN marks of Opposer actually do identify a living individual, the ROSE formative is a fairly common given name and could be perceived by the public as a given name.

19. As a result of the foregoing, the initial formative of each of Applicant's subject mark and specific marks of Opposer identified in Exhibits 4, 6 and 7 hereto, provides further reasons why there is a likelihood of confusion between Applicant's subject mark and one or more of the Dior Trademarks.

20. As an additional and further reason for denying registration of Applicant's mark to Applicant, there is a likelihood of dilution by blurring with respect to Opposer's famous, distinctive DIOR trademark which is widely recognized by the general consuming public of the United States of America and China as a designation of source of goods of Opposer. Opposer's DIOR trademark has been used throughout the United States of America and worldwide for multiple decades and long before any rights to which Applicant would be entitled in and to Applicant's Mark. In Applicant's home country of China, as well as the United States of America and throughout the world, Opposer's DIOR trademark is recognized as indicating Opposer as the source of goods offered under such mark, various of the Dior Trademarks having been registered in the United States of America since long before any priority to which Applicant may be entitled for its mark. See, for example, Exhibits 1 through 7 hereto. The use and any registration to Applicant of the KORADIOR mark would in all likelihood dilute Opposer's rights in and to the Dior Trademarks by blurring Opposer's rights in its marks.

21. Further relevant considerations with regard to the likelihood of dilution by blurring, Applicant's trademark is substantially similar to one or more of the Dior Trademarks which Applicant adopted with the clear intent to falsely create an association with Opposer's Dior Trademarks. Evidence of Applicant's intent to create an association with Opposer's Dior Trademarks includes at least: the reference on its website of France being the source of inspiration for its clothing; the choice of a trademark which gives the distinct impression of being a woman's first name in conjunction with Opposer's DIOR trademark; the choice of a type font which is the distinctive Cochin type font which Opposer has been using for decades and as is shown in, for example, its Registration No. 893,200 of Exhibit 3 hereto.

22. Still further evidence of Applicant's intention to dilute Opposer's Dior Trademarks by blurring is the insertion by Applicant in its application which is the subject of the within Notice Of Opposition, of the following statement:

The trademark consists of an invented and stylized Latin word "Korador"; the wording "Korador" is the trade name of the applicant and has no significance in the relevant trade or industry or as applied to the goods listed in the application, not a term of art, no geographical significance, nor any meaning in any foreign language.

When the above statement was inserted by Applicant, it knew full well: that the subject trademark was not in any way, shape, form or manner a Latin word; and that the DIOR part of the subject mark clearly did have a significance in the relevant trade or industry as applied to the goods listed in the application. Applicant made such statement in spite of having such knowledge. Such intentional misleading of the United States Patent and Trademark Office comprises a breach of ethical standards of fair dealing and provides a further reason why registration to Applicant should be denied.

* * * * *

WHEREFORE, for at least the reasons stated above, Opposer prays that the Opposition be sustained and that registration to Applicant be refused.

Respectfully submitted,
